

Google Apps for Education Information for Schools

DEC Teachers and Students now have access to Google Apps for Education via their DEC login

In partnership with Google, the online learning and collaboration tools known as Google Apps for Education are now available for use by all DEC teachers and students. These tools are used around the world to support teaching and learning and the development of 21st Century skills.

The applications include:

- Google Drive – you and your students can easily collaborate on documents, spreadsheets and slide-show presentations
- Docs, Slides and Sheets – online editing and collaboration tools for common document formats
- Classroom – a new way to create and collect assignments paperlessly
- Sites – allowing students and teachers to create websites using easy to use templates

How can I access these tools?

Access to the applications is via the student and staff portal, using your DEC username and password. There is no need to create separate accounts.

Where can I get more information?

More information on these tools and how they might be used can be found on the Learning Tools Technical Support site at <https://detwww.det.nsw.edu.au/it/learnsyssupport/googleapps>
